What Is Motivation? (Or Lack of Motivation?)

- A personality trait?

What Is Motivation? (Or Lack of Motivation?)

- A result of a confrontational counseling style
- Ambivalence is normal
- The probability that a person will enter into, continue, and adhere to a specific change strategy
- A state of readiness to change

A way to counsel to increase motivation?

- Motivational interviewing is a directive, client-centered counseling style for eliciting behavior change by helping clients to explore and resolve ambivalence.
- Accurate empathy is a key skill
- “Spirit” of MI: collaboration (partnership), evocation (listening and eliciting), autonomy (ability to choose)

Principles of Motivational Interviewing (DARES)

- Develop Discrepancy
- Avoid Argumentation
- Roll with Resistance
- Express Empathy
- Support Self-efficacy

Miller WR, Rollnick S. Motivational Interviewing, Second Edition: Preparing People for Change. New York: Guilford Press; 2002.

Develop Discrepancy

- Change is motivated by a perceived discrepancy between present behavior and important personal goals or values
- The person rather than the counselor should present the arguments for change

Avoid Argumentation

- Arguing is not listening
- Arguing is counterproductive
- Arguing leads the patient to take the other side
- Arguing causes resistance

Roll with Resistance

- The person is a primary resource in finding answers and solutions
- Avoid arguing for change
- Resistance is not directly opposed
- New perspectives are invited, not imposed
- Resistance is a signal to respond differently

Express Empathy

- Acceptance facilitates change
- Skillful reflective listening is fundamental
- Ambivalence is normal

Support Self-Efficacy

- A person's belief in the possibility of change is an important motivator
- The person, not the counselor, is responsible for choosing and carrying out change
- The counselor's own belief in the person's ability to change becomes a self-fulfilling prophecy

Roadmap of a Motivational Interview

- Building motivation for change (Part I)
  - Enhancing alliance and autonomy
- Negotiating change and strengthening commitment (Part II)
  - Providing information while creating dialogue

Five Early Methods

1. Ask Open Questions
2. Listen Reflectively
3. Affirm
4. Summarize
5. Elicit Change Talk

Change Talk

Self-Motivating Speech

- Disadvantages of Status Quo
- Advantages of Change
- Optimism for Change
- Intention to Change

Change Talk DARN-C

- Desire
- Ability
- Reasons
- Need
- Commitment

Reflective Listening

- SIMPLE (repeat, rephrase)
- PARAPHRASE (infers meaning)
- REFLECT FEELING (emphasizes underlying emotion)
- Variations: Amplified, Double-sided

Strengthening Commitment

- Recapitulation
- Key Question
- Advice
- Negotiate a plan
- “Endgame” (elicit commitment)

See www.motivationalinterview.org

Elicit-Provide-Elicit

- Elicit patient's view of drinking, pros and cons of use and change
- Provide a reflection, or information, with permission
- Elicit patient's response, concerns, questions, change talk
