

Free Online Lab Management Software

Quartzy is a free online lab management software developed by graduate students that helps you manage your lab effectively, from inventories, orders, shared facilities, protocols and more. It is used by thousands of scientists from all over the world. To read what members say about Quartzy and to register visit: www.quartzy.com/register.

